Active Shooter Response Training – Interactive Presentation

Description:
A 1.5 hour interactive presentation and discussion of active shooter preparation techniques, warning signs, and survival tactics, accompanied by videos and a question and answer section. Training is recommended for all members of the University community. Class size minimum is 15 people. Classes are generally scheduled at least one month in advance. It is recommended that all UM faculty, staff, and students attend this training at least once every 3 years. Upon request, there is an option for location specific follow-up training for departments, groups, and or buildings (see below).

Requirements to Schedule:
• A reserved room on campus with audio visual (A/V) capabilities
• A 1.5 hour block of time in the above room
• Attendance of at least 15 persons

Active Shooter Response Training – Location-Specific Walkthrough

Description:
Emergency Management personnel will conduct a walkthrough of the desired building/department/area with all participating faculty, staff & students, providing recommendations for protective actions in pre-determined specific locations throughout. Trainers will deliver specific verbal scenarios to participants in the areas where they perform their daily work, and walk them through the basic concepts of response to the given scenarios, offering best practices and experience on how to apply them. This training is recommended for all campus areas and buildings, but requires those participating to have taken the basic training presentation within 1 year prior to the walkthrough, so that participants remain familiar with the basic concepts of active shooter response. Classes are generally scheduled a month in advance.

Requirements to Schedule:
• A 45-minute to 1.5 hour block of time in the building or area being utilized (depending upon the size of the area being covered, to be discussed in advance)
• Attendance of at least 10 persons
• Date and time options for a brief walkthrough meeting with building manager/department head and OEM training personnel, to be scheduled a week prior.

All-Hazards: Fundamentals of Emergency Preparedness

Description:
This 1-hour foundational training provides key emergency response information for the most common hazards we face at the University of Miami, empowering attendees with highly actionable response steps that can be rapidly implemented during any emergency situation. It is recommended that all faculty, staff, and students take this training prior to completing their first year of service/school and once every 3 years afterward.

Requirements to Schedule:
• A reserved room on campus with audio visual (A/V) capabilities
• A 1.5 hour block of time in the above room
• Attendance of at least 15 persons

Fire Evacuation Training

Description:
Led by Environmental Healthy & Safety with support from Emergency Management, this 45-60 minute presentation on fire evacuation survival tactics includes a review of building exits and proper evacuation protocols. A quick evacuation drill in your area concludes the training.

Requirements to Schedule:
• A reserved room on campus with audio visual (A/V) capabilities
• A 1.5 hour block of time in the above room
• Attendance of at least 15 persons

Hurricane Preparedness Training

Description:
This 1-hour interactive training and discussion session is led by Emergency Management professionals presenting what to expect and how to stay safe before, during, and after a storm. The course also includes tips for better understanding forecasting information, concrete steps and best practices for being prepared for hurricanes both at home, at school, and at work, and finishes with a question and answer session for all things related to hurricanes or hurricane preparedness.
It is highly recommended that all faculty, staff, and students new to South Florida (or who may not have experience with hurricanes previously) take this training as soon as they arrive, in order to best prepare. The training is also appropriate as a refresher for all levels of experience and strongly recommend it to everyone at least once every 3 years, in order to make The U a more resilient and better prepared community, overall.

Requirements to Schedule:
• A reserved room on campus with audio visual (A/V) capabilities
